

PERSONAL Motivation

By Romeo Mabasa

We live in a world where the society defines what we should be, what we should have achieved at a certain age and the peer pressure is mounting year after year. We are fast adopting the "Microwave" Lifestyles, where we want things to happen now, the life of fast food, quicker returns on investment, we just don't have the patience to wait to receive our full rewards. This book was written with some of those critical thoughts in mind. What we never realise is that the society plays little role in who we eventually become.

Everything begins with you, Job 42:2 says "You can do anything and no one can stop you" (NLT) and by starting to take charge of your life, you are never apologetic of what you need to do, when to do it and procrastination vanishes. Once we understand who we are in God, we begin to see and cherish our abilities, worth and can finally live our purpose to the fullest.

We begin to notice all the resources at our disposal and take advantage of those resources to get ahead. We further begin to realise our own strengths and can therefore refine our weaknesses.

It all starts with defining your vision, purpose and blend it with our abilities to achieve your goals, and that creates a sense of worth and belonging within yourself.

When we fully understand ourselves, people can talk and accuse us of things and we walk away without feeling the need to prove ourselves, for we know that God has already defined and approved us from birth.

This book seeks to challenge the need to always depend on other people to achieve your own plans. I encourage you to learn to stand on your own, prove your own craft and once you can make a success of it single-handedly, then perhaps join venture with other people.

Other topics covered in this book:

- How to manage discouragement
- Beware the "Microwave" Lifestyle
- Vision Carriers
- I just lost my job